Read the passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions.

A recent report from Ho Chi Minh City has raised serious concerns about child safety and development in modern society. The findings highlight both online and offline challenges that local teenagers are facing today and suggest how to solve them.

According to the report, technology is growing rapidly. Statistics show that 89% of children aged from 10 to 15 spend two to four hours a day surfing the Internet. More importantly, 87% of teenagers aged from 12 to 17 spend five to seven hours online every day. Too much screen time without adult supervision can badly affect personality development and cause a high risk of cyber abuse.

There are several other factors affecting children's safety in the real world. In crowded urban areas, many migrant families face economic hardships and live in small rental houses. Because parents are often busy working, they may neglect their children. Furthermore, communication about children's rights is still insufficient. At the same time, local social workers often have to perform multiple roles, which limits their effectiveness in helping vulnerable children.

To address these issues, the city has proposed new programs to help teenagers interact safely and creatively in the digital world. Schools are also organizing awareness campaigns to teach students how to avoid online risks and bad behavior. In conclusion, protecting children requires a strong connection between families, schools, and local authorities to ensure a safer environment for the younger generation.
